Southampton Engrossed in Seeking Novelties for Fair

Almost Anything From a Penny Whistle to Automobiles to Be on Sale—Unique Features to Interest Children of the Colony.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 6. THE storm which swept over this place last Sunday was called a junior cyclone by some who experienced its fury, and there are those in the West where such weather conditions are frequent, who compared it with storms they have seen in that part of the United States. It broke when the gathering at the bathing beach was greatest, after service in St. Andrew's Dune Church. The heavy fog that came in about noon did not disperse the crowd, but there were some of them wise in the ways of the sea who left for their homes as soon as they saw flocks of frightened seagulls come ashore shrieking and squawking.

Suddenly there was a tremendous gust of wind, continually increasing, that sent the crowd of onlookers close by the shore helter skelter to the bathing pavilion several hundred yards away, and most of them reached this shelter before the rain fell in torrents. It was a mass of color that ran from the beach, the women in their brightest garments, and added to the confused mass of people were the fancy colored umbrellas that had been placed on the strand, some of these being blown out to sea.

Those who were in the surf ran to their bath houses, only to find them in total darkness. There were fully 200 men, women and children in the pavilion where they were held a half hour and more before they were able to get into their motors, which were parked outside. On their way to belated luncheons the havoc created by the storm was shown by streets littered with broken boughs, branches and upturned trees, some of which fell across the roadway. Numerous chimneys were overturned and windows blown in by the force of the wind, with a result of flooded houses. It seemed a miracle that there had been no loss of life or serious accidents. In the darkness of the storm electric lights went out, telephone communication also was cut off and for nearly four days there were no telegraph wires to New York.

Preparing for Street Fair.

The entire community is engrossed in preparations for the village street fair, which is to be held next Friday afternoon and night in Agawam Park, just on the border of the lake, where there will be diversions sufficient to attract old and young not only of Southampton but of the entire county of Suffolk, whose towns and villages all depend upon the hospital in cases of dire necessity. They are working with good will and the financial results should meet to a great extent the needs of the hospital for the coming winter. Mrs. Peter B. Wyckoff, Mrs. Arthur B. Clavin, Mrs. Edward P. Mellon and Mrs. Phillips B. Thompson are at the head of the numerous committees that have been selected. Mrs. A. Stewart Walker, Mrs. John H. Morice and Mrs. Joseph Palmer Knapp are directing the artistic layout of the booths and other features, making sketches to be followed by artists, and also personally decorating some of the booths. They have the assistance in painting the mammoth sun flowers which form an alley on the street side of the park, by Messrs. Joseph J. Hollenbeck and V. Winthrop Newman, whose studios now are piled up with these mammoth flowers. Mrs. John Wolfe and Mrs. David Thompson have been canvassing the county in their endeavor to spread publicity of the undertaking, which now is known for a radius of many miles. Almost anything from a penny whistle to a diamond wrist watch, not to overlook up to date automobiles, will be on sale. A poster for Mrs. Joseph R. Dilworth's booth reads: "Stop, look and buy a share for the Southampton fair," and at this booth for the investment of $1 the dividend may bring one of various articles that include a diamond wrist watch, a fur stole, decorative lamps, evening and sport gowns, gay colored sweaters and other articles, useful and ornamental.

Diversions for Children.

Particular attention is being paid to diversions that will interest the hundreds of children here and for them there is to be a full fledged circus, with a well appointed tent and fine, brass band, and with acts sufficient to make it the real thing. Through the efforts of Mrs. Lyttleton Fox Mr. Barron G. Collier is sending a regular Luna Park circus, which will be directed by Mr. Herbert Evans. Mr. Charles Andrews McCann of the Paint and Powder Club of Baltimore will act as official Barker for the side shows and the staff selected by Mrs. Fox will include Mrs. Julian M. Gerard and Mrs. A. W. S. Cochran, who will be her treasures; Mmes. Peter F. Dunne, Andre de Copet, Charles L. Blanchard, Oakley Van der Post, Alfonso P. Villa, Channing P. Wiley, Reginald Wigham, Pierce Butler, Walter L. Niles, L. du Pont Irving, Charles A. Dana, Grosvenor Nicholas, Marshall Russell and Clement J. Ryan. Misses Beatrice Pratt and Estelle O'Brien. In the name of her small son, Samkins, Mrs. Edward R. Thomas is equipping a wonder tree, which will be hung with all sorts of packages that will afford surprise and pleasure to the playmates of her son, who is here for the season. Mrs. Orson B. Munn has arranged for the children a wonderland, which will be fenced in with an entrance like the trunk of a tree. At the top of each fence post will be a squirrel and at the entrance the Ghibbony, mythical animals devised by Mrs. Stuart Davis, who has painted these quaint creatures. Mrs. Munn's many helpers will include Mmes. Arenas Humphreys, Joseph N. Carroll, Edward Cooker, Oren B. Henry James, Harold M. Wall, Misses Eleanor Le Roy Lawrence and Ruth Moller. Mrs. George Leary has been engaged enough to supply a merry-go-round which will be in this section and which will whirl about with its accompaniment of music old and young, and her helpers will include Mmes. Bradish J. Carroll, Edward Cooker, Oren B. Henry James, Harold M. Wall, Misses Eleanor Le Roy Lawrence and Ruth Moller. Mrs. George Leary has been engaged enough to supply a merry-go-round which will be in this section and which will whirl about with its accompaniment of music old and young, and her helpers will include Mmes. Bradish J. Carroll, Edward Cooker, Oren B. Henry James, Harold M. Wall, Misses Eleanor Le Roy Lawrence and Ruth Moller.

To Serve Dinner and Supper.

There will be no necessity to have afternoon tea, dinner or supper at villas as preparations for light or solid food will be made by Robert Day and all these good things will be served under the special guidance of Mrs. Goodhue Livingston, Mrs. Henry Rea and Miss Laura V. Day, who will have the assistance of Mmes. George Barton French, Edward Van Ingen, Howard Elliott, Reginald Fincke, E. M. Horne, Duncan S. Ellsworth, William W. Willock, Alvin W. Kreech and Mrs. William C. Potter. The quality of the food is assured, as it will come from the private kitchens of the place. Combined with the tea booth will be the pavilion for dancing, where Mr. and Mrs. Roberto will dance the tango as it has been done in Paris since the war and also the Scottische Madrileno, an entirely novel dance here. Mrs. Robert Potter Breese is attending to this feature, which is an important one, and there will be every inducement to dance with music by an orchestra conducted by Marketa. Mr. Duncan S. Ellsworth is to be treasurer of this section and Mrs. Breese will have the assistance of Misses Katherine Van Ingen, Cornelia Livingston, Florence Ellsworth, Louise Flinn and Virginia Ryan, and Messrs. Edmond O'Brien, Hampton Terry, James C. Parrish, Jr., Henry Rea, Edward H. Van Ingen 2d and Henry Sproul, Jr. In the afternoon Mrs. George Barton French, with the assistance of Mrs. James Sheehan and Mrs. William C. Potter, will support dances for juveniles. There will be incidental dancing by some of the clever children of Southampton.

All will not be in the lighter vein, as there will be an opportunity to purchase the latest books from Mrs. Russell H. Hoadley, Mrs. Charles E. Miller, Mrs. George G. De Witt, Mrs. James L. Barclay and Miss Martha Coster. Mrs. Robert Waller will have a table for emeralds, lace and ornamental articles and will have among her helpers Misses Candace Stinson, Mrs. Charles R. Henderson, Mrs. Marshall J. Dodge, Mrs. Stephen Peabody, Mrs. William G. Condon, Mrs. Edwin W. Shields and Mrs. John Corrigan.

Booth of Mysteries.

The booth of mysteries will be conducted by Mrs. Frederic Van Lennep, who is an adept in mind reading, and in her enclosure there will be several tents in which the mystic arts will be displayed by Mrs. Edward R. Thomas, who is clever in physiognomy; Mrs. George T. Maxwell, who is adept in palmistry; Mrs. Jerome N. Bonaparte, Mrs. James L. Breese, Mrs. J. Alden Talbot, Mrs. Ten Broeck Terhune, Senorita Oloquo, Miss Ruth Stillman and Mr. Antoine le Febvre, a young Hollander. Mrs. George A. Dixon will sell perfumes and toilet accessories. Mrs. Samuel T. Skidmore of East Hampton is to have one of the artistic booths of the fair, which will be of Oriental design, and there will be on sale rare jades, amber, lacquer boxes, beautiful scarfs and embroideries. Assisting Mrs. Skidmore will be Mrs. George W. Schurman, Mrs. George R. Ellsworth, Mrs. C. Wheaton Vaughan, Mrs. John A. McCall, Mrs. Scott McLanahan and Mrs. Hamilton King. There will be several girls to assist in Oriental costumes. Mrs. Rawson L. Wood at a gayly decorated Russian tent will sell cigarettes, which have been supplied by the thousands by Mrs. Arenas Humphreys, and she will have the help of Princess F. Rospioglou, Mme. Gregoire Tawolska, Mrs. Gardner Brown, Misses Harriot Coffin, Adele Reynal, Curry Winchester and Priscilla Dodge.

Mrs. Wyckoff will have a table for the display of ornamental candles for dinner tables, studios and drawing rooms, while Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine and Mrs. Howard Elliott will do their best to dispose of some fine motors. Mrs. Dilworth has enlisted with her, Mrs. George Stuart Patterson, J. Denison Sawyer, Dudley Olcott, Charles E. Mitchell, J. Fritz Byers, Frank H. Corwith, Charles A. Dana, L. B. Sproul, Fairfax Stuart Landstreet, Irwin A. Powell, Clarkson Potter, Edward S. Moore and Henry F. du Pont.

Motor Parties at Briarcliff Lodge

SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE NEW YORK HERALD. BRIARCLIFF, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Scores of motorists en route from the South and West for points in the Adirondacks and Berkshires have found Briarcliff Lodge an ideal stopping place on their tour. Miss Llewellyn S. Parsons of Park Avenue was at the Lodge over the last week end. Others include Mr. and Mrs. George Legg and Mrs. Harvey Durand of 621 Fifth Avenue, who have arrived for the month of August. Mr. Antonio Ponvert, owner of one of Cuba's largest sugar plantations, divides his summer leisure time between the Lodge and Fairy Island, his Lake Mahopac place. He left this week by motor to visit his mother in the White Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brown of New York were among those giving dinner parties at the Lodge. Arrivals include Mrs. E. H. Blaine, Mr. Theodore A. Greene, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thurston, Jr., Mrs. M. E. Robertson, Miss Julietta C. Barnum, Mrs. J. B. McDonough, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Keyes, Mrs. F. W. Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Raphael, Mr. Guy D. Russell, Mr. Edward L. Griffin, Mr. Clifton Murphy.

Miss Delano Plans Brilliant Wedding in the Berkshires

To Become Bride of Col. S. A. Cheney in September—Notes of the Hills.

LENEX, MASS., Aug. 6.

A BRILLIANT wedding is to take place at the Congregational Church in Stockbridge in September, when Miss Louise Delano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Adrian Delano of Washington, D. C., formerly of Chicago, becomes the bride of Col. Sherwood A. Cheney, U. S. A. He is an 1897 West Point man and was graduated from the General Staff College at Washington last June. He was assistant to the chief of engineers at Chaumont in 1918; he was chief of transportation at Tours in 1919 and then was sent on a mission to the Baltic provinces, returning in February, 1920. The Delano family is occupying Miss Virginia Butler's house, the Nursery, at Stockbridge. Mr. Delano formerly was president of the Washash and Monon railroads.

Mrs. Richard C. Dixey and her sister, Miss Mary Aspinwall Tappan of Boston, are to entertain the Lenox Garden Club at Tanglewood, on the north shore of Lake Mahkenne, Monday afternoon. This is one of the fine old places of Lenox, with charming drives through a wonderful primeval pine forest. The 265 acre place was acquired in 1849 by William Aspinwall Tappan of Boston, father of Mrs. Dixey and Miss Tappan. Mr. Tappan built the villa in 1862. Nathaniel Hawthorne occupied the little red cottage that was on the place in 1850 and 1851. This house was burned June 22, 1890. The garden, which Mrs. Dixey designed, has two miniature lakes in which grow many water lilies, now in their prime. The ornate entrance gate to the garden was brought from Austria.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Johansen, artists, are occupying this season for the first time their villa in Stockbridge, which they bought last autumn of Mr. Charles S. Mellen. It is on one of the hills overlooking the town. Governor Percival W. Clement of Vermont, whose portrait Mr. Johansen is painting, was their guest this week. During their visit abroad last spring Mrs. Johansen, who was Miss M. Jean McLane, painted the portrait of the Queen of the Belgians.

Ten at Stockbridge Club.

Mrs. Loyall Allan Osborne poured tea at the Stockbridge Golf and Tennis Club this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. H. Fairfield Osborn, Jr. of New York, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Lamond at Fair Acres, registered at the club early in the week. Among others out for golf were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bullard of Washington, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rawley Geyelin of New York. Mr. William B. Osgood Field and son, Mr. Frederick Vanderbilt Field, play over the Lenox golf course each morn-

Tennis Players Entertained at Gala Events in Newport

Mrs. Douglas E. Dismukes, Chairman of the Committee Arranging Artists Ball for Benefit of the Art Association.

SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 6.

MORE entertainments were given in the villa colony this week than at any time in the last few years. It was a gala gathering for the tennis players, for they were entertained each day.

On Monday dinners were given for them by Mrs. Woodbury Blair and Mrs. Stuart Duncan. Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Oliver G. Jennings gave a large luncheon party for them at Bellacre, and in the evening Mrs. Arthur Curtis James had them at her place, where a farm party was arranged. This was one of the unique events of the week. The players were requested to come in sports clothes. The dinner was served out of doors in the farm yard of the little Swiss village on the large place of Mr. and Mrs. James known as Beacon Hill House. There were several members of the younger set present. Among the guests were Misses Sylvia Hillhouse, Carlotta Havemeyer, Muriel Vanderbilt, Emily Pierson, Dorothy Willard, Marguerite Caperton and Helen Moran and Mrs. Philip Rhinelander 2d.

Wednesday Mr. T. Suffer Tailer gave a men's luncheon for the players at his place, Honeyuckle Lodge, and also extended the courtesy of his new golf course to them. Ocean Links proved so attractive that tennis almost became a side issue. Wednesday evening Mrs. Lawrence Lewis Gillespie gave a large dinner at which several of the tennis players attended. There were two large tables with floral decorations and an orchestra furnished music. Following the dinner there was bridge and informal dancing.

Dance at Clambake Club.

Wednesday also brought a real Newport frolic, with Mr. William E. Carter as the host. The Clambake Club was the scene, and dinner was followed by dancing. On Thursday Mrs. Stuart Duncan entertained at Bonniere with a large dinner party, at which Conrad's Orchestra played, and Friday brought the ball at Beechwood, where Mrs. Vincent Astor had 300 young friends in the gathering. This evening there was a dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtis James, and the Clambake Club was the scene for the players to a close. Art in summer is taken seriously at Newport, and the Art Association is one of the live institutions of the city. Of course, there is play as well as work, and society delights in assisting the association in its benefits. One success will take place on August 18. This will be in the form of an artists' ball, and already elaborate arrangements are being made. It will be a costume event. Mrs. Douglas E. Dismukes is the chairman of the general committee. Miss Catherine Wharton Morris heads the artistic committee, and various groups will be in charge of women of society. Miss Helena Sturtevant will have charge of the Greek gods and goddesses group; Mr. Shafter Howard, the Neapolitan group; Mr. Robert Lee Keeling, the French group, with the artists from the Quarter Lads; Miss Lucille R. Edgar will have the Old Newport group, and Mrs. William Rogers Morgan, the Spanish dancers.

Others on the committees include Mmes. Henry Ware Putnam, Lyman Colt Joseph, Robert M. Franklin, William Gordon, Hamilton Fish Webster, Miss Wetmore and Miss Ruth Thomas.

Reception for Two Artists.

There was a tea and reception on Wednesday to meet two artists of international fame who have started their exhibition there. They are Rosamund Tudor and Capt. Julius Lamar. Both are interesting personalities, as well as successful artists. Rosamund Tudor is a nonchalant of Mrs. W. Starling Burgess, wife of the yacht designer. Her work is interesting, and includes portraits of Mrs. Junius Morgan, Jr., and her children, and several nude studies in and out of doors.

Capt. Lamar has an attractive wife, who occasionally is the inspiration as a model. Mr. Lamar recently resigned from the army to follow art. His career has been meteoric, for he has been painting only two years. He is a graduate of West Point and was with his division in France during the war. Portraits are his best efforts, and among them are those of Miss Alisa Mellon, daughter of Secretary Mellon; Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.; Mrs. Roosevelt and her young daughter, Grace Green Roosevelt, and Miss Jane M. Pforzheimer.

Miss Marguerite Caperton is here with her motion picture camera. Capt. Lamar will join them later. At the Hill Top Inn are Mr. and Mrs. John T. Adams and Miss Doris Adams of Marblehead.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Torrance, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. O'Neill of New York, one time Senator James Smith, Jr., of New Jersey, and Mr. Richard Stockton of New York are at the new Cliffs Hotel.

Ambassador Pezet at Poland Spring

SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE NEW YORK HERALD. POLAND SPRING, ME., Aug. 6.—The Russian Ambassador and Senor de Pezet and family arrived at the Poland Spring House on Tuesday. Miss Florence Klitz of New York gave a card party this week. Miss Ruth Broughton of Bloomfield, N. J., and Edward P. Ricker, Jr., of New York won prizes. Others present included William J. Williams, Norman and Donald Lawson of New York, Miss Marjorie Earl and Mrs. Alan Fassmore. Mr. and Mrs. Don M. Parker of Garden City are prominent among the golfers on the links.
